

Robert Welch.

The comfort and feel of cutlery is a major part of the dining experience.

At Robert Welch Designs we've been considering the diner for over 60 years, perfecting that first point of contact between diner and food.

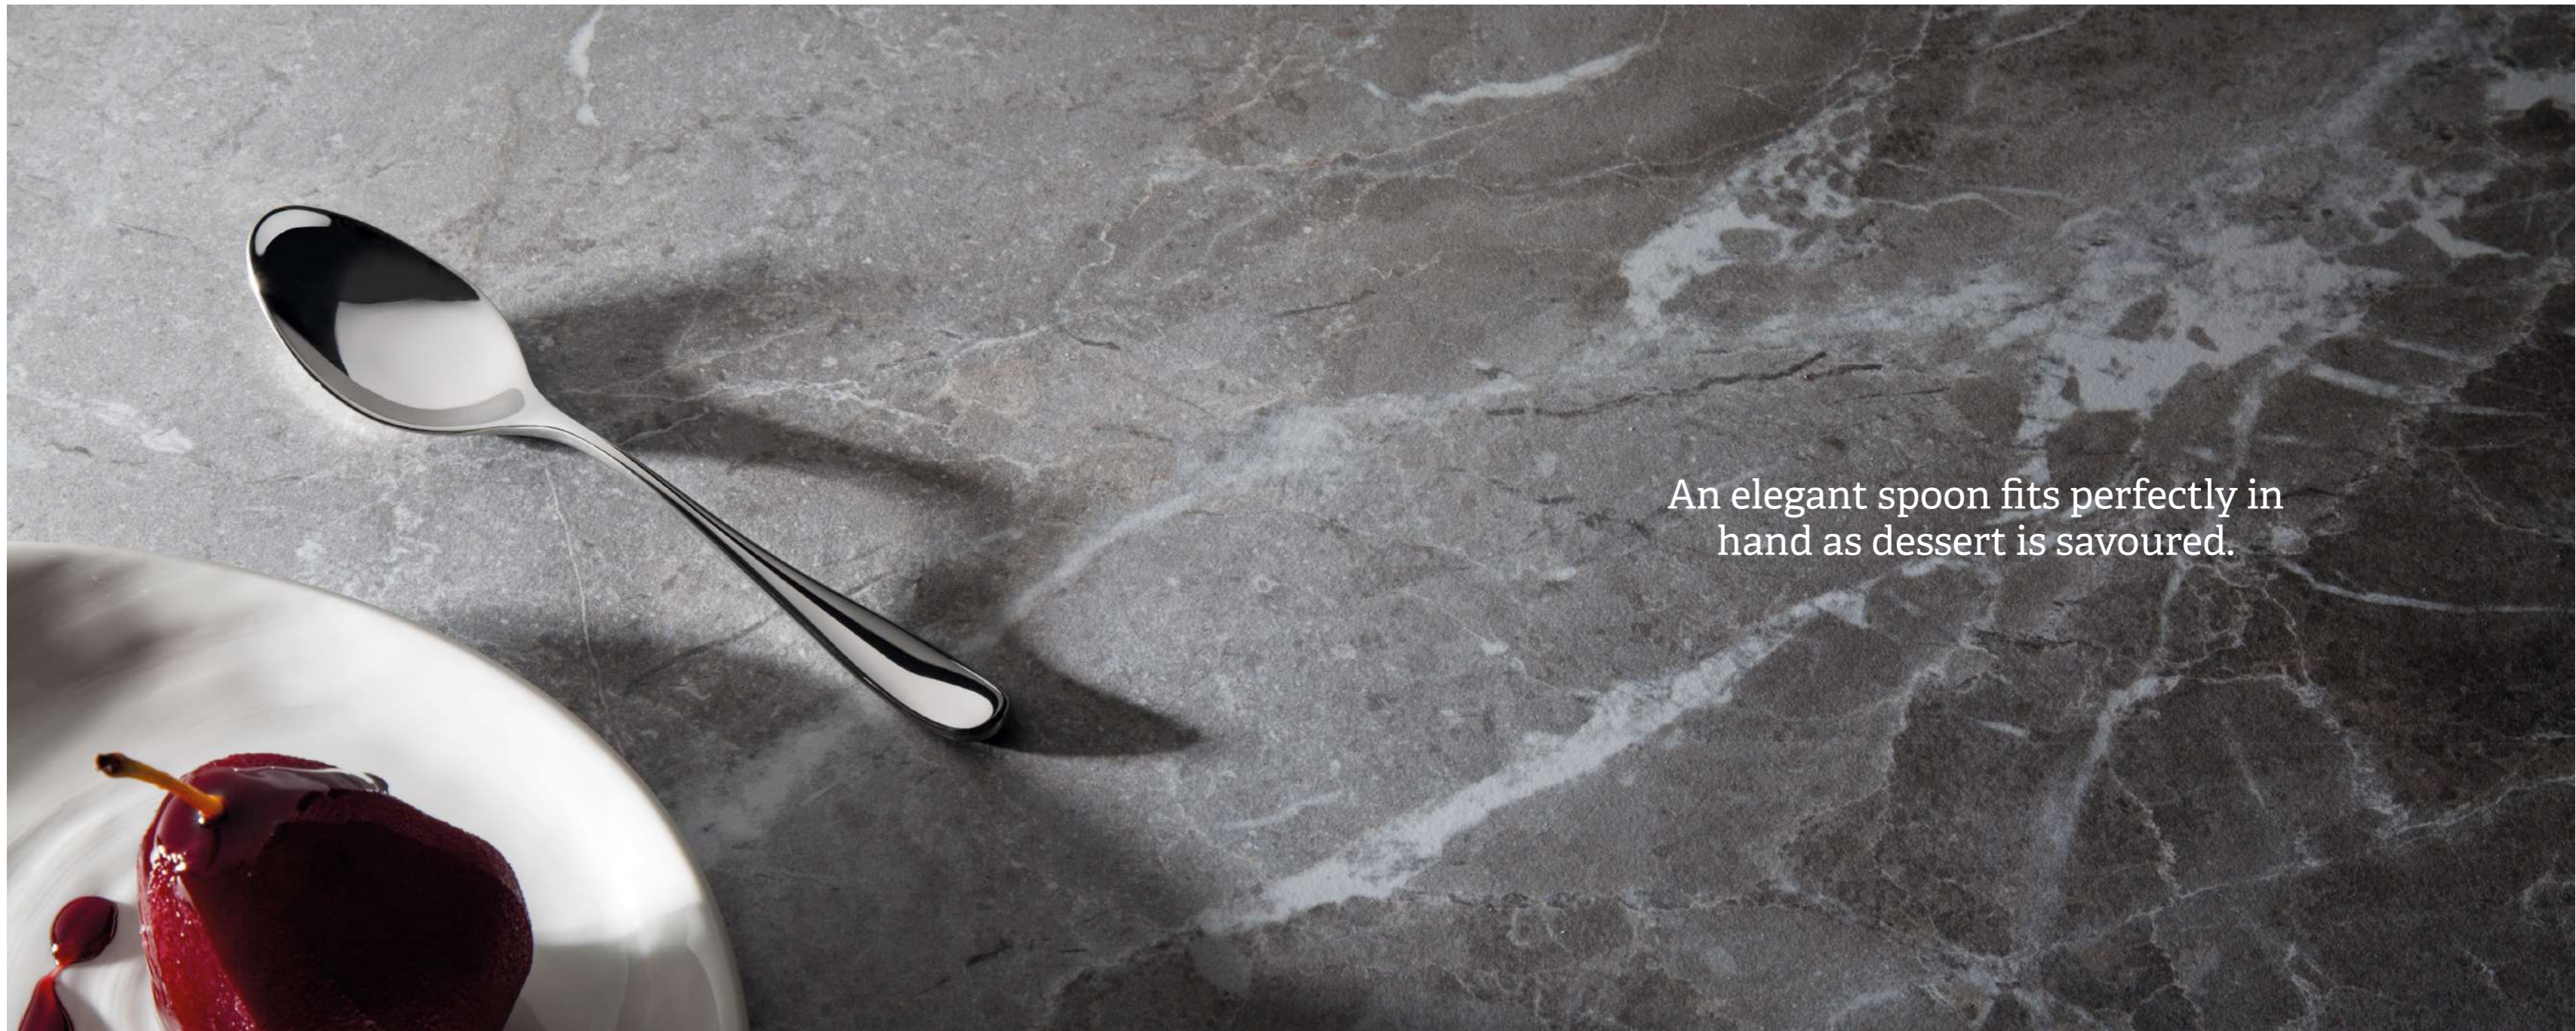

We create beautiful products that let customers focus on what matters most – enjoying the best culinary experience at your restaurant.

An exquisitely crafted knife cuts effortlessly through a succulent steak.

A perfectly weighted fork twirls
spaghetti with ease.

An elegant spoon fits perfectly in hand as dessert is savoured.

Our Cutlery Collections

Robert Welch Designs' spoons and forks are made using the highest quality 18/10 stainless steel. Specially hardened stainless steel provides our knife blades with the finest cutting edge.

Three distinct categories exist within the Robert Welch Designs Cutlery Collection.

Collection 3.5

All patterns are made from 3.5mm stainless steel, a slightly thinner gauge that gives this collection a lighter feel in the hand.

Collection 5.0

All ranges feature exceptional balance and comfort and are a heavier gauge – a quality experience for the diner.

Master Collection

For customers who want something special: Our highest levels of design and manufacture expertise, to provide a real statement on the table.

At Robert Welch Designs we are proud of our design and production standards, which enables us to offer a Lifetime Guarantee against manufacturing defects on our stainless steel cutlery and a 25 year guarantee on our mixed materials cutlery.

To The Table

Comfort and use are at the heart of the design process at Robert Welch Designs, when creating pieces or patterns to complement any table setting. Each piece of cutlery is rigorously tested – the weight, shape, style and finish all combining to enhance the overall dining experience.

Each range has its own look and feel and finding the most suitable design requires as much consideration as the menus themselves.

Just as each piece possesses a timeless appeal, care has been taken to create strong and durable products that can withstand the rigours of a busy hospitality environment.

Our Cutlery Finishes

Robert Welch Designs cutlery comes in a range of finishes, from highly polished to semi-matte. Each giving the final touch that brings the design to life.

There are four distinct finishes within our collection, including our bespoke silver-plating service.

Bright Finish

The stainless steel is mirror polished, bringing a smooth, bright finish to the cutlery and a sparkle to the dining experience.

Satin

Brushed stainless steel creates a soft, contemporary look and a warmer more relaxed feel for the table.

Vintage

A distinct, semi-matte effect produced by tumbling the cutlery. A look with its own vintage personality, where every piece exhibits subtle differences.

Silver-Plated

A finish that can be applied to any range. The colour and high shine of silver-plated cutlery bestows a timeless elegance to any table.

Silver-plating is a bespoke service. For more details see page 104. On certain ranges we can also incorporate contrasting bright knife blades.

Baguette Vintage

Baguette Vintage

Full Vintage or Bright Finish

18/10 stainless steel

The Baguette style of cutlery is perhaps one of the most familiar in fine dining settings. A classic shape with heritage connotations, it has a good weight: traditionally the sign of quality that lends itself well to this collection. Its tumbled finish (VN) gives a unique visual lustre. Baguette is also available in bright finish (BR).

As with other collections, comfort in the hand is a Robert Welch signature. The thickness of the handle gently tapers towards the tip, keeping the weight centrally balanced.

Radford

Bright or Satin Finish
18/10 stainless steel

Considered by some to be 'perfection in the hand', the Radford collection is perhaps the most classic of the Robert Welch designs – and the most extensive.

A modern translation of the Georgian style, with long tines and blades and a classic heel. Yet the range has a softness and ergonomic curve which is both classic and contemporary at the same time.

The Radford collection complements every dining experience. This versatility makes it a popular choice while the extensive range, which includes specialist dining pieces, offers maximum flexibility. This pattern is available in bright finish (BR) and satin (SA).

Westbury

Bright Finish
18/10 stainless steel

Defined by its pennant shaped base, this collection has angles reflected throughout the design of each piece.

The angled bolster and traditional heel add to the substantial, almost historical feel of the knives. Whilst the mix of traditional design features and weight combine with the modern emblematic finish of the base, and soft curves give a sculptural finish.

Ashbury

Ashbury

Bright Finish
18/10 stainless steel

From the Master Collection the Ashbury cutlery design is a three-dimensional experience with its distinctive knife handle positioned at 90° to the blade.

The classic styling of the tines of the fork contrast against the modern silhouette of the knife sitting upright on the table. The gentle kick up from the table of the fork and spoon add to the table top presence, whilst in the hand diners experience a perfect fit.

Chefs' Arena

Designed in consultation with professional chefs to provide a range of knives with comfort in mind and the optimum cutting action. Each knife has been purposefully designed and diligently tested for its specific task from delicate dicing to precision filleting. These multi-award-winning Signature knives and accessories are ergonomically shaped for maximum control and ease of use.

Fully forged from a single piece of high-quality stainless steel the tang extends the length of the knife for strength and balance.

The Robert Welch Signature blade is a precision tool, hand honed and sharpened by master craftsmen to give many years of constant use.

Signature Knife Technical Specifications

Lifetime guarantee

All Robert Welch products are designed and manufactured to last a lifetime. It is this excellence in engineering that allows us to offer a lifetime guarantee against manufacturing defects.

Superior sharpness that lasts

High quality DIN 1.4116 German stainless steel hardened to Rockwell 55-56. Combined with a hand applied Japanese-style 15° blade edge angle on both sides for superior sharpness that lasts.

Designed for purpose

Signature santoku knives have scalloped indentations, creating air pockets which push food from the blade, reducing friction when slicing.

Angled full bolster

Allows for the full use of the cutting edge, providing essential balance and control.

Ergonomic handles

Designed to fit into any sized hand. Ergonomically shaped for comfort and to minimise fatigue during extended use.

The RW insignia

The stainless steel RW insignia is spot welded to the tang, becoming a permanent detail of the handle.

Rated in the top 1% of all branded kitchen knives

The Robert Welch Signature knife range is rated in the top 1% of all branded knives for initial sharpness and edge retention when independently tested by CATRA, the Cutlery and Allied Trades Research Association, in Sheffield.

Fully forged

Fully forged from a single piece of high quality German stainless steel for strength.

Perfectly finished jointing

Leaving a perfect, clean and impermeable seal for long lasting hygiene in the kitchen.

DuPont™ material

Injection moulded plastic through the tang avoids the need for less durable rivets.

Full tang

The stainless steel spine extends the length of the knife, creating a full tang for strength and balance.

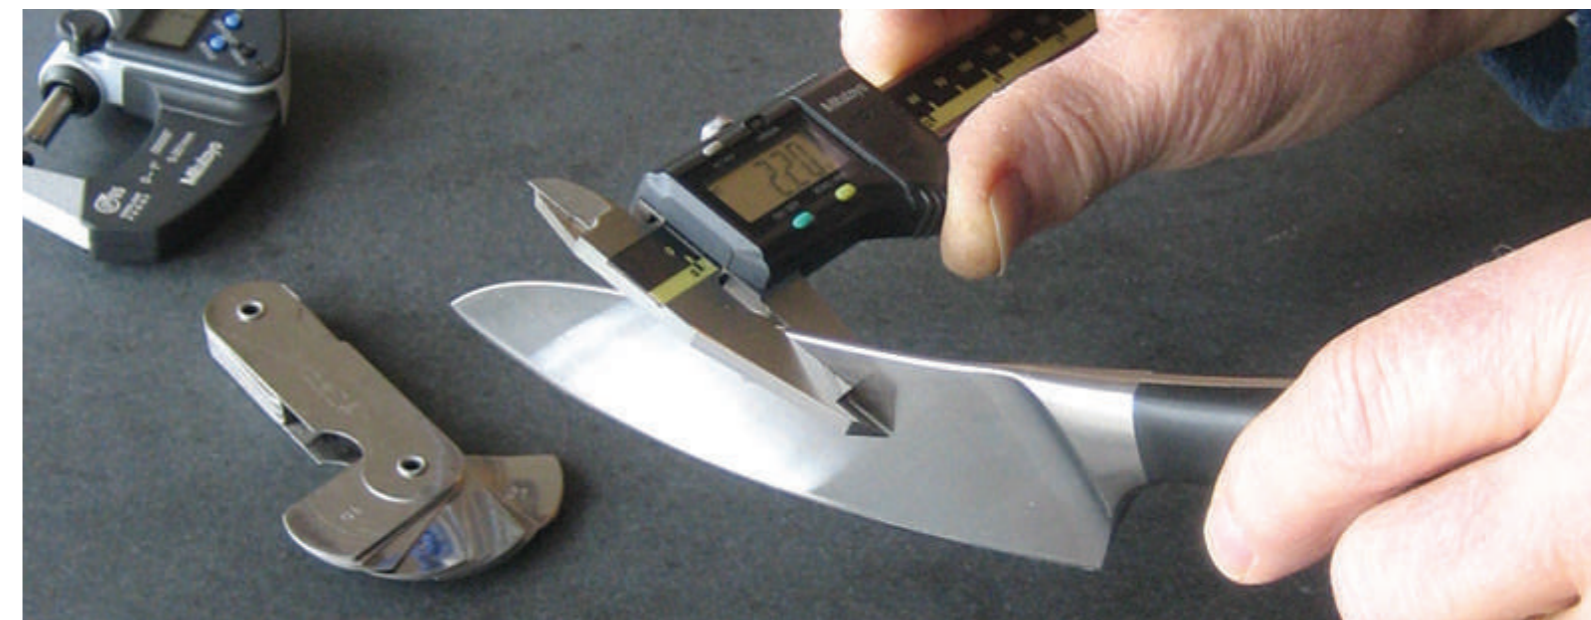

Award-winning Design

Each Signature kitchen knife has been created by the Robert Welch Design Team in Chipping Campden, England.

Signature Manufacturing Process

From a single billet of steel, made from fully certified German 1.4116 high carbon stainless steel, the knife is forged to the design specification. Once blanked, it is then fully hardened (to Rockwell hardness rating 55-56) and tempered for optimum strength (to remove brittleness from the metal).

Surfaces are ground to size and the tang is electro-polished to ensure corrosion resistance. The DuPont™ handle is then injection moulded over and into the tang and finished along with the bolster using digitally operated finishing machines. Finally, the cutting edge is prepared using CNC taper grinding technology and the final 15° Japanese edge angle on both sides is prepared by hand. All knives are then 'whip paper' tested to ensure quality of production.

Sharpening and Honing

Honing your blade is one of the main aspects of good knife care, although it often gets confused with sharpening. Sharpening is taking away material, whilst honing is the straightening out of an already-sharp blade edge which has become bent out of alignment and therefore blunt.

The honing of any kitchen knife is essential to preserve its performance over time. We believe little and often is best when it comes to maintenance and recommend honing your knives every four to six weeks, depending on use. Serrated knives need less maintenance but should be sharpened every one to two years by a professional.

Designed for simple, quick and easy maintenance. When used regularly the hand-held sharpener, with its ceramic sharpening wheel, hones any plain-edged kitchen knife back to razor sharpness in a few strokes. The tapered groove will restore the blade to its superior sharpness.

The sharpening steel is the traditional choice for professional chefs around the world. Like the hand-held sharpener, this steel hones bent blades back into position. Using a steel requires training and skill to maintain a consistent edge angle.

Robert Welch Knife Blocks

Our knife blocks offer additional solutions for the busy kitchen. The Book Oak Knife Block is an effective space saving option, designed so that kitchen knives sit in an upright position allowing quick access from the front of the block.

The Signature Black Knife Block comes complete with an integrated ceramic wheel knife sharpener, to keep knives honed and sharp. A magnetic locator in each slot draws the spine of the knife to the block, preventing damage to the cutting edge when inserting or removing the knives.

History

Founded in 1955 by Robert Welch, Robert Welch Designs is a family-run business based at Chipping Campden in the Cotswolds. Originally, Robert Welch set up as a designer for industry from his workshop in Chipping Campden and from this base opened a shop to sell his own designs.

Over the last twenty-five years his family – Alice and Rupert Welch – have expanded the business to supply customers, retailers and trade customers with a multi award-winning dining, kitchen and living collection of international renown.

Robert Welch's first studio, 1955.

Alveston Cutlery, designed in 1961, the modern evolution of which (RWII) remains a popular choice for hospitality customers.

From his first studio and workshop (top left), Robert Welch quickly established himself as one of Britain's leading 20th century designers. In 1957 he was commissioned to design all the cutlery and tableware for the new ocean liner, the SS Oriana, and by the 1980s the tables of several British Embassies were laid with Robert Welch designs.

The Robert Welch Way

When Robert Welch left the Royal College of Art in 1955, he set up with just his drawing board and a camp bed in a little rented room in a disused workshop in the 18th century Silk Mill at Chipping Campden in the English Cotswold Hills.

It was an inauspicious start for a man whose strong design principles would make him an MBE and a Royal Designer for Industry. Today's Robert Welch team are fortunate enough to still be working in the same building where it all began over 60 years ago. Robert Welch's passion to create beautiful, functional, timeless products remains rooted in the company's design DNA, ensuring his memory lives on and that every new product continues to be 'Designed the Robert Welch Way'.

The Robert Welch Design Studio

From the design studio in Chipping Campden, the Robert Welch design team work from a brief outlining all aesthetic, ergonomic and functional requirements. The designers sketch out the initial concept and then, with the aid of a rapid prototyper, develop 3D models and fine-tune the look and feel of the design to an optimum level.

From the final design sign-off, the designers will keep a close eye on the entire manufacturing process through to the final delivered product. The design process can take over a year.

Environmental Impact Statement

As a company we strive to remain sustainable and mindful of the environment. This extends from the materials we use and the buildings we work in, to our packaging, energy and waste management.

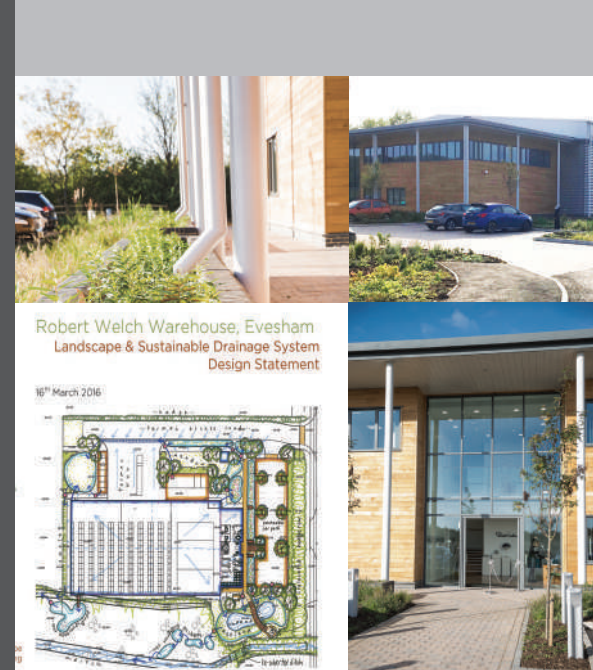

Our Products

Stainless steel is both a recycled material and fully recyclable. It gives us flexibility in the design process, is easy to work with and is neither harmful to people during its production or its use. Stainless steel is durable, easy to clean and maintain, and benefits from a protective layer that inhibits corrosion and ensures a long life.

Not only is stainless steel easily recyclable, but the process can be repeated indefinitely. In fact around 80% of the stainless steel in use is estimated to be recycled (sustainablestainless.org).

Our Packaging

We have recently renewed our packaging and it is now almost entirely recyclable. The board in our boxes can be fully recycled. We have removed the plastic film wrap around our packaging for all retail outlets. We are currently investigating suitable alternatives to replace the internal plastic tray.

Our Buildings

When designing The Radford Building, our recently completed business hub and warehouse, we created an energy efficient property, employing a range of environmentally sustainable solutions including a ground-source heat pump. The entire plot and building have been designed to catch rainwater, and this feeds a specially planted pond and nature area created to encourage and protect local wildlife.

All our principal sites operate a zero to landfill policy, and we work hard with our waste management providers to ensure we make the very best use of all surplus materials.

We are determined to continually improve and reduce our impact on the environment and encourage customers, suppliers and other stakeholders to do the same.

Please note that many of our products are hand-finished leading to occasional variance in dimensions. For some of our larger products, this can be several millimetres.

All products, names and logos of Robert Welch Designs Ltd. are protected by patent, design and trade mark registrations. For full details, please visit robertwelch.com/iprights
